TO TAKE MYSTERY OUT OF BANKING

By ROBERT V. FLEMING,
President American Bankers Association

The American Bankers Association has cooperated wherever it could properly do so in every measure for national recovery. It has offered constructive recommendations for such changes in banking laws as were recognized were necessary, and we now have a better law under which to operate. The Banking Act of 1935 affords us opportunities for broader service and, at the same time, retains the fundamentals which we believe are so vital to our national welfare and which have played a large part in bringing our country, in a comparatively short space of time, to the position of the greatest industrial nation on the earth.

R. V. FLEMING

The Public and Banking

It is necessary that the public have a thorough understanding of the functions of banks, what they can do and what they cannot do, for it must be recognized that to many people the business of banking is still somewhat of a mystery.

We should frankly explain these functions to the public, acquaint them with the laws under which we operate and emphasize the vital part which banks play in the economic life of the Nation. Therefore, in order that there may be the fullest cooperation and understanding between the banks and the people of the country, it will also be one of our objectives to take the mystery out of banking wherever it exists in the public mind.

Banking Conferences

A series of Regional Conferences on Banking Service will be held in strategic sections of the country, embracing all types of banking. The new banking laws and the regulations issued thereunder will be carefully analyzed so that our bankers will have a thorough understanding of the broadened services now made possible.

The question of public relations and how we can best serve the people of our communities will be another topic of discussion. Clinics or forums on specific questions of interest to bankers and the problems confronting them in their particular localities will also be included in these conferences.

Arizonian Uses Dogs to Bag 300 Mountain Lions

Prescott, Ariz.—Successful lion hunting, if you believe Giles Goswick, depends on having good "hounds."

Goswick's opinion on anything connected with mountain lions is regarded as gospel in Arizona.

For ten years Goswick has made his living by killing mountain lions, first as a United States biological survey hunter and now as a state-conservation predatory game hunter charged with ridding this section of the state of the fierce killers which destroy tens of thousands of dollars worth of live stock each year.

Goswick's pack of "lion dogs" are descended from a hound brought to Arizona 35 years ago by his father. Through successive generations of training, they have lion hunting bred into them.

According to the hunter, he and his pack have killed or captured 300 mountain lions, including a nine-foot male which was believed to be the largest ever killed in the Southwest. This particular lion, he said, was trailed for three days by the dogs before they frightened it into a tree.

AAA Is Held Invalid By Court

Its most important decision since the NRA was invalidated, saw the Supreme Court on Monday decree the entire AAA unconstitutional.

Heralded in this section as a great aid to the farmer, the AAA had poured a stream of checks to rural America in return for the signing of production contracts and was the most successful program in the way of farm relief ever attempted.

Progress Of Program Is Reviewed

According to James P. Anderson, project manager, Resettlement Administration, Farmville, the development of the Appomattox, Buckingham Forest Project is well under way. All available relief workers within commuting distance of the project are being transported by government trucks to work in the morning and are returned to their homes at night.

All occupants of optioned lands who were living upon the land when the option was taken, will be given employment at once. All Rural Rehabilitation clients and resettlement clients living within commuting distance of the project, will also be given employment. 500 men are needed immediately to go to work on this project, although only 100 have been certified and reported for work up to this time. All employees coming from the classes above mentioned are paid on a monthly salary basis and will not lose time caused by bad weather, provided they report to their foremen for work and are dismissed by him because of bad weather. If they do report for work they will lose the day unless they have been previously instructed by the foremen not to report.

Development work is being done only on tracts on which options have been accepted, but when the Government is accepting options rapidly now, there will be no hold up in the program for lack of land upon which to work. $244,188 has been allocated to the Appomattox Buckingham Forest Project to cover the expense of development work, while $230,00 are allocated for the payment of the cost of the land. The Final Plan for the Prince Edward Project, including 26 options covering 5002 acres were submitted on November 23. Ten days later notice was received that the Final Report had been approved and sixteen of the 26 options submitted with it had been accepted. The other four options are expected to be accepted within a few days. This very refreshing speed (fantastic authority to commence development work immediately upon the Prince Edward Project. 100 relief workers were requested from the United States Employment Service to report for work on December 30. Because of bad weather has postponed work reporting, but as soon as the weather is open the farmers of the Prince Edward Project will go forward with speed. It is hoped that the full quota of 200 men needed for the development of this project will be obtainable the first part of February at least. The above projects will furnish contract work for employment to workers until June 30, 1936, and it is expected that the development work will be fully completed until June 30, 1937, and further that such additional funds as may be needed to complete the development will be allotted.
